

QUESTIONING PREVENTIVE MEDICINE: IS A POUND OF PREVENTION WORTH AN OUNCE OF CURE?

Tuesday, May 17, 1:00pm – 7:30pm
Great Hall, Trent Semans Center, Duke University

- 1:00pm Welcome & Introduction
– Farr Curlin, MD
- 2:00pm The Role of Religion/Spirituality in Racial/Ethnic Disparities in Adherence to Blood Pressure Medications: For God and for Pharma?
– Macarius Donneyong, PhD, MPH
Respondent: Neha Pagidipati, MD, MPH
- 3:00pm Break
- 3:30pm Pharmaceuticals and the Commodification of Risk: Implications in the Prevention and Treatment of Illness
– Dima M. Qato, PharmD, MPH, PhD
Respondent: Aaron McKethan, PhD
- 4:30pm Does Preventive Medicine Undermine Clinical Wisdom? Risk Management, Artificial Intelligence, and the Problem of Prudence
– Paul Scherz, PhD
Respondents: Michael Pencina, PhD and Warren Kinghorn, MD, ThD
- 5:30pm Break and Dinner
- 6:15pm Why We Should Be Skeptical That Preventive Medicine Strategies Are Good Medicine
– Nortin Hadler, MD, MACP, MACR, FACOEM
Respondent: Kevin Weinfurt, PhD
- 7:30pm Close